Instant Surveillance System

The surveillance system is becoming more and more important nowadays. However, the surveillance system for home and small business applications are normally limited by high installation cost, complex configurations and ugly cables. In order to solve those problems above, the lamp type IP cam with Instant Surveillance System was developed for easy using.

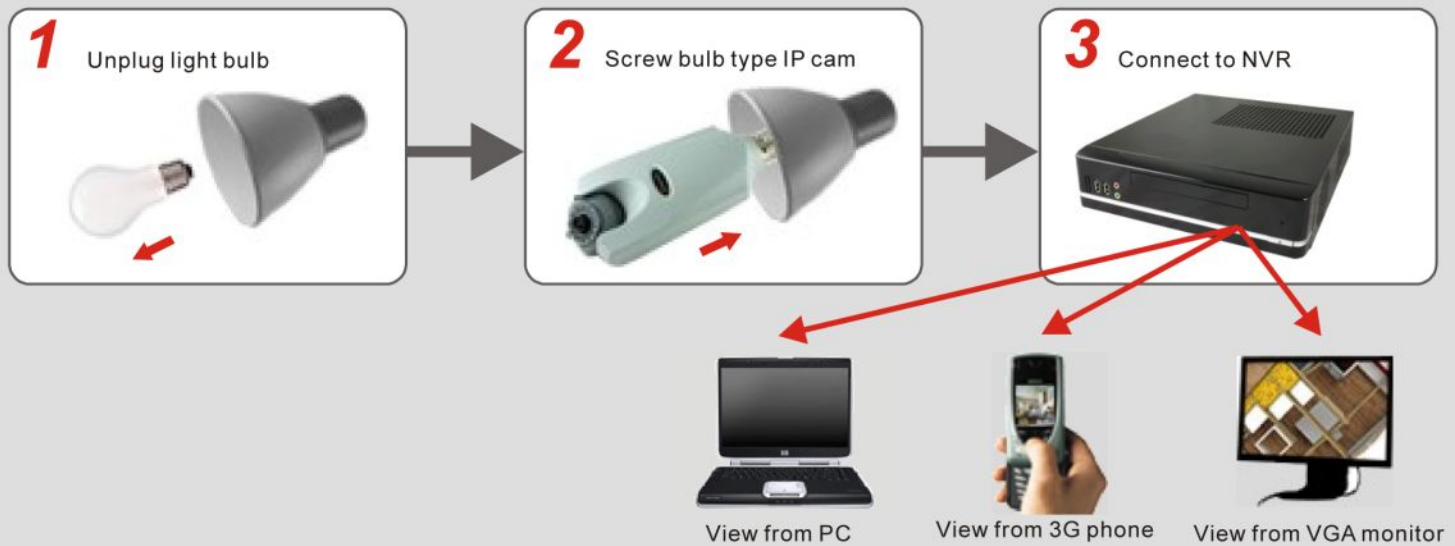

PLC technology for Instant Surveillance System

This system was based on the Ethernet system which built by the PLC (Power Line Communication) module. Due to both IP cam built-in with PLC module, the Ethernet connection can be automatically established over AC power line (AC 230V). Therefore, this surveillance system can be easily installed. The costly and ugly video cables are not longer required.
